

Understanding the differences

A value education class enlightened the students of class II on differences between people. We are all different from others in many areas, like culture, physical appearance, intellect, talent and interests. Differences make us unique, and to drive this point home, the students made a chart, showing how unique they are from others. The project was called 'I am who I am'. As a group activity, each child finger-painted a beautiful picture on chart paper. The children learnt to accept their friends the way they are and pledged to play together and study together helping each other with their talents.
