

Session on joining the Armed Forces

The school's career counselling cell – Samcara – organised a workshop on a career in the Indian Armed Forces for the students of class XII. The resource person for the workshop was CS Kandal, founder director of CS Institute of Defence and Management.

He discussed the blend of adventure, career prospects and prestige that the Armed Forces carry. He talked about the Combined Defence Services (CDS) exam for students who are willing to take on any kind of challenge to defend their country. He discussed the value based personality training required, management games, psychology tests, case studies, self-exploration sessions and physical obstacles that need to be cleared by the students aspiring to become officers. The session was interactive.
